

April–August

In the spring apple trees begin waking up. Leaves start growing, reaching for the sun. Flower blossoms pop out. Bees love to visit the sweet-smelling blossoms, spreading pollen from flower to flower. That causes the blossoms to grow into baby apples. The apples keep growing all summer.

